CONTEXTUAL INFO

Last Thursday afternoon, a dark cloud of tragedy took over a quiet neighborhood where families lived and friendships flourished. When the sun went down, the streets were dark and silent, and people began to talk about the problems.

Then, there was a peaceful city, and in the middle of it, there was a guy who was trapped with a debt that he could not pay for seven years. Although he was a great father, he had many debts that made him feel sad and stressed.

There was a guy no one knows his name about, but he had to pay. From being kind to them, we become enemies, and now they hate us and we hate them.
